About Me

I am a professional MERN stack developer with a successful record in the development of dynamic and user-oriented web applications. I have done frontend and backend efficiently, providing quality solutions to meet business requirements. I believe in continuous learning and have a love for teamwork.

Experience

Tech team Head
NabPush   December 2023 - 2024

In this role, I led the development of a Chrome extension for a startup. This involved bug fixing and the release of new features for a better user experience. I was in charge of performance optimization of the extension and keeping it aligned with changing user needs. It was through my contributions that the product grew on and became more reliable.

MERN Developer
Midenus (Intern)   July 2023 - February 2024

In this role, I made sure to design responsive user interfaces and develop reusable components to enrich functionality. Later, I integrated RESTful APIs into the system. The main task was to build a quiz based system where a user can come and give quiz exams, see the solution and retake the past exams.
